

Leadership Inventory for Female Executives (LIFE) - Instructor

Dr. Magdalena Denham is an Associate Professor of Practice in the Department of Security Studies at Sam Houston State University's College of Criminal Justice. She teaches graduate and undergraduate courses on emergency management, disaster risk reduction, homeland and comparative homeland security, leadership and management, policing, and intelligence. Her research has been featured in various academic journals, including the International Journal of Emergency Services and the Journal of School Violence.

Dr. Denham has a background in federal law enforcement and has contributed to designing homeland security and emergency management educational programs. She co-created the Incident Command Simulation and Training (InCoSIT) at the Law Enforcement Management Institute of Texas (LEMIT) and has developed academic curricula at the College. Her teaching philosophy emphasizes experiential learning and community engagement, earning her the Service Award and the Academic Community Engagement (ACE) Award at the College of Criminal Justice.